ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A system for encrypting a first set of data includes a generating means for generating a second set of data representative of the first set of data. The system also includes an encrypting means for encrypting the first set of data using the second set of data.